

Good morning, Friends:

I just wrapped up my morning run through beautiful Smith Valley.

Around mile four, I kept thinking about all the friends I saw yesterday at the annual Women for Amodei event at the Peppermill. You sure can feel the excitement in the air among Republicans clamoring to win back our state at all office levels.

And it's so nice to see life returning to normal.

Over the next few months and year, I will be updating you on wins and losses at the state legislature and along the campaign trail. However, one thing is clear: we must elect more Republicans to office if we want to win back our government.

A one-party control system creates extreme, hyper-partisan legislation that favors special interests and leaves Nevada families behind.

As you've heard me say before, the Democrats are in their second election cycle with full control of the government. This time, they knew how to wield their power and used it to push ultra-partisan national priorities making it the most progressive and partisan session in history.

But we'll get to that later.

There is plenty of time for campaigning.

Right now, we should all embrace life returning to normal, be thankful and kind to each other, and reaffirm our gratitude for living in a beautiful state in the greatest nation on earth.

Enjoy the rest of your day,

Robin

PS, couple of other things -

- I am proud to help sponsor former Attorney General Adam Laxalt's 6th Annual Basque Fry at the Corley Ranch in Gardnerville on August 14th featuring the great Governor of Florida, Ron DeSantis, and Senator Tom Cotton! Assembly Republicans will have a booth there representing us all, stop by and say hi if you can make it. More information can be found here and here.
- It's looking like late fall is when we will have a special session on redistricting - more to follow on that.
- It was awesome cheering on the packed Golden Knight Fortress last night from home. On to the Canadiens in the semifinals. Let's finish the fight!
